Veterans Conservation Corps
Internship Program

*"In healing nature, you heal yourself."
-John Beal*

VCC History

The VCC was grown from the efforts of John Beal, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran of the Vietnam War. After service, John found his purpose in life by restoring Hamm Creek and fighting for the restoration of the Duwamish River, both located in South Seattle. He advocated for the creation of a program that offered opportunities for veterans to engage in environmental conservation in their communities as a way to heal from the physical and mental challenges that may result from military service. The Veterans Conservation Corps was established by the Washington legislature in 2007 (RCW 43.60A.150), and the VCC internship program was formally established in 2014.

VCC Program Mission

Serve those who served by providing veterans with self-directed connections to the lands, waters, and communities in WA State.

The VCC provides opportunities for veterans to do meaningful work in conserving and restoring natural ecosystems with our environmental conservation and agricultural community partner organizations. We support veterans in establishing and maintaining healthy reciprocal relationships with nature and their community so that through their own efforts they may increase their self-efficacy and resiliency and realize a positive shift in their mental, emotional, and physical well-being. To further support their efforts, VCC interns receive training and resources on veteran-related topics that empower them to address and overcome any challenges that they may experience in their transition from the military.

Desired Outcomes for VCC Interns

- Veterans take the initiative to create a self-directed internship experience
- Given the opportunity to do meaningful work in conserving and restoring natural ecosystems and seeing the results of their efforts, veterans acknowledge and understand their own self-efficacy, resiliency, and ability to overcome their own personal challenges

- Part-time internship (20 hours/week): $1,600/month

Each calendar month is divided into two participation periods: 1-15 and 16-30/31. ### Internship Position Classification & Benefits

VCC interns will not receive wages and will not be an employee of either the WDVA or the internship host organization.
